This typically for medium sized businesses that have a need for weekly support of ongoing issues, or the small business that wants a monthly visit to address some of there lingering issues. Hardware failures and deep troubleshooting can sometimes require onsite support.